CULTURAL CARE

Grows well in most soil types which are moist but well draining and in a sunny location. Do not allow to dry out over extended periods of heat. No pruning generally required but can lightly trim to shape in autumn. An application of slow release fertiliser during spring would also be beneficial to overall performance.

The genus Hebe, named after the Greek goddess of youth, comprises of around 100 species - a large proportion of these being endemic to New Zealand. They are typically grown for their great variety of foliage and ability to flower through most of the warmer months. They often add textural interest in mixed borders and varieties such as H. HEDGE WITH AN EDGE is a particularly choice selection for a low growing hedge with its naturally neat, rounded habit. Also try using individual specimens spaced out in mixed perennial borders as a year round structure.
